★ The Administration made clear last week that it would not tolerate leaks inimicable to the national security. With President Reagan personally signing the dismissal papers, U.S. Attorney William H. Kennedy of San Diego was relieved of his post. Reagan acted after Kennedy complained to the San Diego Union that the CIA and Justice Department had blocked the indictment of Miguel Nasser Haro, until recently head of Mexico's internal security agency, on charges he participated in an international car theft ring. Kennedy's comments "blew the cover" of Nasser, who was an indispensable conduit for intelligence information on Communist activities in Latin America.
